

SCIENCE & CHILDREN

CONTENIDO

VOLUME 48 No. 1, SEPTEMBER 2010

The symbol  identifies content related to this issue's focus:
WHAT DO SCIENTISTS DO?

- 32  GRADES 2-4
Dig Deeply.
A gardening project with peas engages second- and third- grade students on thinking, acting, and writing like scientists.
Sharon owing and Barbara Merino.
- 38  GRADES 4-6
Thinking Like a Ssssscientist!
Fear of snakes inspires a unit on science as inquiry.
Catherine Scott, Terry Tomasek, and Catherine E. Matthews.
- 43  GRADES K-6
Lights, Camera, Action... It's Science Friday!
A successful take on National Public Radio's popular show creates a school science community.
Lynda Tugurian and Margaret R. Blanchard.
- 46  GRADES 2-6
Experiences, Patterns, and Explanations.
Make school science more like scientists' science.
Kristin L. Gunkel.
- 64  GRADES 1-2
Through Their Eyes.
First and second graders consider insect vision and how scientists might study it.
Alison Perkins and Carol Brewer.
- 82 My Summer Vacation.
A teacher reflects on the changes coming to the Gulf of Mexico.
Pamela Galus.

TEACHER RESOURCES

- 12  In the News
- 22  Teaching Through Trade Books
Mysteries of the Past.

- 26  The Early Years.
Inquiry at Play.
- 28  Formative Assessment Probes.
“Doing” Science.
- 70  Science 101.
What and how do insects see?
- 76  Methods and Strategies.
Supporting Ideas With Evidence.
- 80  Natural Resources.
What’s Bugging You?
- 89  NSTA Recommends.

IN EVERY ISSUE

- 6  Editor’s Note
- 8  Guest Editorial
- 10 Message from the NSTA President
- 86 Call for Papers
- 99 Advertisers Index
- 100 Every Day Science Calendar.
September

A Year of Inquiry begins! In this issue, students practice thinking and acting like scientists through a variety of investigative strategies.

Cover images provided by iStockphoto.com and Punchstock.com. Cover concept and design by Will Thomas.