

SMITHSONIAN

CONTENIDO

VOLUMEN 41, No. 11, MARCH 2011

FEATURES

- 28 Myanmar's Free Thinkers.
In the country known as Burma, young artists and activists are a force in the struggle for democracy.
Joshua Hammer, Photographs by Adam Dean.
- 38 Kalahari Journey.
Wild zebras undertaking one of Africa's great seasonal migrations have adjusted to a 150-mile fence, to the relief of researchers.
Eobyn Keene-young Photographs by Adrian Bailey.
- 46 Beauty of the Brain.
A new book illuminates the marvelous and mysterious world inside our heads.
Laura Helmuth.
- 50 The Holdouts.
Other Indian tribes would give up their land and move west after Andrew Jackson won the presidency. But the Cherokees resisted — for a while.
Brian Hicks.
- 62 Gauguin's Gambit.
In his lifetime, the Post-Impressionist iconoclast was more successful promoting himself than his art.
Ann Morrison.
- 72 Quandary in the Amazon.
Peru's mega-dam will bring a flood of benefits to the region. But at what cost?
Clay Risen. Photographs by Ivan Kashinsky.

DEPARTMENTS

- 3 From the Editor.
LESS TRAVELED ROADS.
- 4 Letters.
"A PLAGUE OF PIGS".
- 7 Wild Things.

KIT TOXES.

8 Your Smithsonian.com
SUGAR HILL, N.H.

10 Indelible Images.
SPEED DEMONS.
By typewriter or Twitter, news — good or bad — travels fast.
Michael Shapiro.

13 This Month in History.
AMISTAD CASE.

14 Digs.
BLACKBEARD'S TREASURE?
Archaeologists in North Carolina are examining every last artifact from what looks to be the pirate's flagship.
Abigail Tucker.

19 Around the Mall.
HOLDING ON.
20 From the Castle. Collaborations.
25 The Object at Hand. Gene Krupa's Drums.
26 Q&A Ruth Jarman and Joe Gerhardt.
27 What's Up. Calder goes mobile.

82 Presence of Mind.
KING LUDD'S WAR
Luddites were not quite who we usually think they were.
Richard Conniff.

96 Last Page.
Spoken Like a Native.

ON THE COVER

Zebras may trek more than 20 miles a day to reach their preferred grazing land.

Photograph by Adrian Bailey / Aurora Select.

This page.
Burmese youths attend a concert starring rapper J-Me, who treads carefully around regime censors.
Photograph by H. Connor Bailey.