

NEW SCIENTIST

CONTENIDO

VOLUME 208 No. 2784, OCTOBER 2010

NEWS

- 6 UPFRONT
Solar power could break Germany's grid. The environmental cost of space tourism.
- 6 THIS WEEK
Life on the edge.
All eyes on California for marijuana ballot. Elixir of life discovered – for yeast. Moving on-screen images using thought alone. Did life on Earth start with a spark in the dark?
A fifth of the world's vertebrates are in danger of exhibition
- 14 INSIGHT
The rare earth elements we can't do without.
- 18 IN BRIEF
Two ways to sex a skink. Blue light taps into emotions. Snowball fertilized the Earth.
- 23 TECHNOLOGY
StarCraft game helps machine intelligence evolve. See the world through children's eyes. Why ash-clogged aircraft didn't crash.
- OPINION
- 3 EDITORIAL
A rational drugs policy is on offer in California.
- 28 Watch out, deniers about.
The crusade to undermine climate science doesn't miss a trick, warns climatologist Michael Mann.
- 29 One minute with...Brian Bowsher,
Celebrating 50 years of modern metrics.
- 30 LETTERS
Freud and science. Gripping socks.
- 32 How western science won.
It was all down to geography, argues historian Ian Morris – and that means its time is nearly up.

FEATURES

- 35 Snoop dogs.
DNA forensics are turning man's best friend into a stool pigeon.

COVER STORY

- 38 Secrets of Intelligence.
The 12 pillars of wisdom revealed.
- 44 Wireless crunch.
Congestion in the airwaves could stop your cellphone in its tracks – unless we find a smart way round the road block
- 48 Earth simulator.
Recreate the world on a computer and we can predict anything.

CULTURELAB

REVIEWS

- 52 Machines have needs too.
Anthropologist Timothy Taylor enjoys a provocative plea that we should learn to love technology.
- 53 Gay: born or made?
The age-old question is deftly tackled by neuroscientist Simon LeVay.
- 54 Yves Klein's Eden. Racial skullduggery.

REGULARS

- 30 Enigma
- 72 Feedback
Symptoms of death.
- 73 The Last Word
Oi, big nose!
- 56 Jobs & Careers.

Coming next week...

Urban paradise.
If you care about the planet, move to the city.

Instant expert: Human origins.
The latest in our monthly pull-out guides.