

NEW SCIENTIST

CONTENIDO

VOLUME 210 No. 2806, APRIL, 2 2011

CONTENTS

NEWS

- 8 Unrenewable renewables.
Tap power from the wind and waves, and they could weaken.

COVER STORY

- 32 Evolution in the fast lane.
Life is changing before our very eyes.

FEATURES

- 37 When the stars blink out.
How to do cosmology when other galaxies are nowhere to be seen.

NEWS

- 6 UPFRONT
China bans smoking in public places. North and South Korea united over volcano risk.
- 8 THIS WEEK
Signs of consciousness in a computer. Heaviest antimatter created. Contrails heat climate more than fuel. Parkinson's brain chaos modelled.

INSIGHT

- 12 Salty coffin for nuclear waste.

IN BRIEF

Hormone treats fear of heights. Backwards stars are aliens. Primate that chews the cud.

TECHNOLOGY

- 21 Hidden cochlear implants. iPhone app for Nimbys. Robo-recycling. Airborne 3D radar.

OPINION

EDITORIAL

Rights for robots.

- 26 Free speech!

There's still much to fight for over English libel law, says Simon Singh.

27 One minute with... John Bongaarts.
We could easily crash global population targets.

28 LETTERS
Ego mania. Rethinking BMI.

30 Surfing or drowning.
Can you really do anything with all the information gushing from the internet, asks James Gleick.

FEATURES

32 Evolution in the fast lane.
(see above left)

37 When stars blink out.
(see below left).

40 Forget me not.
Storing that important info needn't be all hard work.

INSTANT EXPERT

Carbon capture and storage.
Your eight-page collectable guide to a potentially planet-saving technology.

CULTURELAB

REVIEWS.

44 I, Avatar.
We need good road maps like infinite Reality to our online near-futures.

45 Genius life.
All about Richard Feynman Life and numbers. Rivals for the solar system.

46 Blaming gadgets.
Technobetrayal – or not. Neuromolality 101. Metamorphosis mystery.

REGULARS

28 Enigma

56 Feedback
Unidentified falling object.

57 The Last Word
Of earwax and onions.

