

DISCOVER

CONTENIDO

VOLUME 31 No. 2, MARCH 2010

- 40 How to travel Through Time.
Do inescapable paradoxes make time travel impossible? Not at all, says this theoretical physicist.
Sean Carroll.
- 32 The Picasso of DNA
Geneticist George Church is learning how to reassemble our genes the way a great artist rearranges the way a great artist rearranges paint. Medicine —and Homo sapiens— may never be the same.
Ed Regis.
- 44 Who Are You Calling Bird Brain?
The amazing mental capacities of ravens, jays, and crows are forcing scientists to reevaluate their ideas about the evolution of intelligence.
Charles Wohlforth.
- 50 Ice Fishing for Neutrinos.
On the frozen surface of Siberia's vast Lake Baikal, physicists set a cunning trap for ghost particles from the edge of the cosmos.
Anil Ananthaswamy.
- 58 Where the Wild Things Are.
A Dutch ecologist is re-creating the landscape of prehuman Europe, challenging the sacred rules of conservation in the process.
Andrew Curry.
- 66 DISCOVER Interview: Barry Marshall.
He discovered the cause of ulcers and stomach cancer. But it was so hard to convince the medical establishment that he had to run the test on himself.
- 4 Contributors
- 5 Mail
- 6 Editor's Note
- 8 Data.
A hands-on approach to brain research, the secrets of fish oil, a practical makeover for geothermal energy, robotic insects, slicing the universe, and more.
- 20 Five Questions for Erez Lieberman-Aiden.

His three-dimensional model of the human genome could help solve one of biology's central mysteries.

Amy Barth.

22 Destination Science.

At the New Mexico site of the world's first nuclear explosion, everything seems normal—until you look more closely.

LeeAundra Keany.

26 Hot Science

The best new books, TV, film and exhibits.

28 The Brain

The Mind's eye is more than a metaphor: It really is possible to see without looking.

Carl Zimmer.

30 Vital Signs

Was something wrong with this rambunctious 3-year-old, or was he just acting his age?

Mark Cohen.

80 20 Things You Didn't Know About Light.

LeeAundra Keany.

On the Cover.

High-definition video still by Biwa Studio.

DISCOVER ON THE WEB

Videos, breaking news, and more — the latest is online at dsicovermagazine.com