

AMERICAN PHOTO

CONTENIDO

VOLUME 24 No. 6, NOVEMBER/DECEMBER 2012

FEATURES

- 28 Two sides, On Coin
Through the lens, British aristocracy and British crime families look eerily alike.
Jocelyn Bain Hogg.
- 40 Editor's Choice Awards 2012
We tried it all, from lenses to memory cards. Behold the top 10 items that are changing the way we take pictures.
The Editors of American Photo.
- 53 Photo Books of the Year
Our annual review gives you stacks and stacks of reasons to pick up an old-fashioned book (or a newfangled e-read).
Jack Crager and Lindsay Comstock.
- 66 In the Shadow of the Black Sun
Ansel Adams made an iconic image using overexposure solarization in 1939. Now shooters are using old tech to create black suns that are surreal and sublime.
John Mahoney.

On the Cover

This issue's cover features (from top left) the Sony Alpha SLT-A99, the Tamron SP 24-70mm f/2.8 Di VC and the Leica M Monochrom—our favorites in AP's annual best-of roundup. Find them (and seven other great excuses to add to your credit card balance this season) on page 40.

DEPARTMENTS

Focus

- 13 One to Watch
Return to Hanoi.
In the colorful, unpredictable market of South-east Asia, Aaron Joel Santos discovered a new approach-and a career.

Michael Kaplan.

18 Work in Progress
Truths to Tell.
Sarah Fretwell went to the Democratic Republic of Congo to make photographs. She came back a human-rights activist
Franklin Melendez.

20 On the Wall
Look to West.
Old West images on tour, 150 years of proto-'shop; Ori Gersht's painterly narrative photos; Ray K. Metzker and the New Bauhaus.
Lindsay Comstock.

24 Digital Domain
World Views.
A photographer and a programmer meet in a museum. What happens is up you.
Chip Rowe.

Gear

73 Gear
2012 Gift Guide.
The equipment, gifts and gadgets worth opening your wallet for this season.
The Editors of America Photo.

84 Parting Shot
Tomorrow's Leaders.
Philip Habib gained entry into one of the most closely held secrets of college life-the frat house-and found The Future of America.
Lori Fredrickson.